

Responsive Practice

Providing Mammography
to Women with Disabilities

The Responsive Practice training is online, on-demand, free and eligible for 1 Category A credit from the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists.

The 50-minute training teaches mammography technologists to:

- Recognize barriers women with disabilities face when accessing mammography services;
- Acquire strategies and approaches to turn barriers into facilitators and provide disability-competent care; and
- Employ positioning techniques to obtain high quality images for women with different body types.
