

Increasing Inclusive Fitness Under the Big Sky: Webinar Feb. 23, 2021

Camp Bullwheel alt tags

Slide 1: Title Page 1 program text slide 2: Title Page 2 shows program Camp Bullwheel name in artistic mosaic.

Slide 3: Photo shows aerial view of Camp Bullwheel along Fish Hatchery Road, Ennis Montana to Varney Bridge and fishing access in the background.

4: Photo shows participant in a manual wheelchair on Camp Bullwheel's wheelchair-accessible raft using adaptive fishing gear alongside Madison River with companion wade-fishing in background.

5: Photo shows three consecutive accessible Camp Bullwheel boats with participants on riverbank. In is drift-skiff with removable seats for participants who can transfer. Two identical accessible drift boats in near background offer ramping transom for wheelchair access. Two or three people are on each boat or standing nearby.

6: Photo shows two accessible drift boats with ramping transoms for wheelchair access along the riverbank with two anglers for each, including one angler using a wheelchair in the background boat.

7: Photo shows participants with and without wheelchairs river-floating on accessible raft, which indicates indicates multiple variations of seating and mounting to accommodate participants.

8: Photo shows four participants including one wheelchair user along with one oarsman river-floating on accessible raft showing another seating and mounting variation.

9: Photo shows two wheelchair accessible rafts on riverbank, including one with the front cross frame removed and portable wheelchair ramp deployed. A wheelchair user sits on that raft in his wheelchair prepared to de-board the raft.

10: Photo shows a concrete river boat ramp with wheelchair accessible raft sitting on the water at the river bank and a wheelchair user sitting at the raft as ambulatory companion approaches.

*Video shows companion unfolding and setting up wheelchair ramp for access to the raft.

11: Photo shows a concrete a river boat ramp with wheelchair accessible raft and a wheelchair user backed up to the raft.

*Video shows a wheelchair user backing up the boat ramp with verbal guidance from his companion.

12: Photo shows an accessible raft at a concrete boat ramp with a portable wheelchair ramp. A manual wheelchair user sits nearby looking at the device and smiling.

13: Photo shows the same accessible raft as previous slide, and the wheelchair user is now pushing himself up the ramp onto the raft while a companion stands by.

14: Photo shows the same accessible raft as previous slides, and, but the wheelchair user is now pushing himself up the ramp onto the raft while a companion stands by.

15: Photo shows the same accessible raft as above just as the wheelchair user's wheels are now fully on the solid floor of the accessible frame.

16: Photo shows the same accessible raft as above with the wheelchair user, oarsman, and a dog on the raft frame as they are floating away on to a river.

17: Photo shows the same wheelchair user as above fishing on the water and with the oarsman handing him a brown trout that he just caught.

18: Photo shows female Occupational Therapist wearing a Craig Hospital T-shirt in a hallway with an adaptive fishing pole strapped to her left hand.

19: Photo shows a tile floor on which sits a standard fishing pole with an electric reel plugged into a rechargeable battery.

20: Photo shows the same fishing pole as in the last photo but now held in a human left hand, of which the thumb is positioned on a control switch.

21: Photo shows a young boy with a fly fishing rod strapped to a harness on his shoulders and held in his hand. The boy looks inquisitively as an adult male points to the device while speaking.

22: Photo shows a more adaptive fishing pole mounted to a mount that allows its user to attach it to a wheelchair.

23: Photo shows an adult male on an accessible raft in his wheelchair and fishing off the side.

24: Photo shows the same person pictured in the previous slide, but he is now holding a fish and smiling, indicating he probably just caught it.

25: Photo shows an adult male sitting in a wheelchair on yard grass next to another adult male with an adaptive fishing device. The man in the wheelchair has a joystick mount extending up to his chin. In the background are several Trailers, people in lawn chairs, a small cabin, and some dogs.

26: Photo shows an adult male sitting in a wheelchair on a raft going down the a river with a fishing pole next to him while he is holding up a brown trout and has a big smile as if he just caught it. A young girl stands closely beside the man leaning against his shoulder and knee, also smiling.